

The Daily Gazetteer.

NUMB. 3108

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1744.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Flanders.

Petersburgh, February 1.

It is very certain, that the Marquis de la Chetardie is very far from having succeeded in his Negotiations at this Court. His Projects appear too systematical to be embraced by our Ministers; who aim at nothing so much, as securing the Peace of the North, and preventing the Rights of the House of Holstein from being drawn into Question. The Marquis, however, confers very frequently with the principal Persons of this Court, who are very well pleased to hear him talk of new modelling every Thing according to the Scheme formed at Versailles, tho' they don't seem to involve the Empire in the Execution of them; rather, because at present there seems to be no chance of Reason for it. The Tranquility of the North no longer in Danger of being disturbed; the Turks disposed to be quiet, and a favourable Opportunity offers for advancing the Prince of Hesse-Homburg to the Archduchy of Austria; which, it is thought, we shall not miss.

Bologna, February 4. There have been of late great motions on both Sides. Prince Lobkowitz had received information of the Spaniards desirous to retire from Sicily towards the Kingdom of Naples, and had resolved to attack them in their Retreat; but after making some Dispositions for this Purpose, it was discovered that this Information was ill founded; and therefore he has further prosecuted that Design. This however is certain, that he is daily joined by fresh Troops; and if the Spaniards continue in their present Posts for many Days longer, he will undoubtedly attack them in their Intrenchments; which will decide the Fate of Italy, and disappoint all the fine-spun Schemes of France and Spain.

Dresden, February 15. On the 8th Instant Veldtmarck Count Beckendorff had his Audience of Leave, both of the King and Queen, and soon after left this City, in order to go, as it is supposed, to Berlin. The common Opinion here is, that he has failed in his Negotiations, notwithstanding his frequent Conferences with our Ministers. His Majesty gave him to understand, at his Departure, that he had all possible Regard for his Imperial Majesty, and would always demonstrate it in his Electoral Capacity; but that it was simply impossible for him to enter into any Engagements, which might directly or indirectly tend to the Prejudice of the Court of Vienna, with which he likewise desired to live in Terms of Friendship, but without contracting with any Alliance prejudicial to the Interest of the Empire.

Paris, February 15. On the 11th Instant Count Beckendorff arrived here and went immediately to confer with his Majesty at Potsdam. It is not known of what Nature the Commission is, with which he is entrusted; but it is not thought here, that he will succeed in it, because, hitherto, our Court has considered him as a Minister too enterprising; which was the Light he stood in to the French Generals. The King, however, received him very graciously, and afforded him a long audience; but these are considered rather as Testimonies of Respect to his Person, than Regard to his Commission; for as his Majesty, on the one hand, is never wanting in his Civilities to Foreign Ministers; so, on the other, he never suffers the Compliments paid them in public, to influence him as to what they propose. The King has sent his Orders to Count Dohna, his Minister at the Court of Vienna, to meet him at Breslau, in order to confer with him on the present State of Affairs; and especially as to the Motives of the Queen of Hungary's Conduct, in sending such great Bodies of Troops, and forming such Magazines in Moravia; which look as if the intended, or expected, an Invasion.

Düsseldorf, February 18. It is certain, that the Queen of Hungary is determined to march 40,000 Men immediately into the Austrian Netherlands; which is said to be occasioned by the Discovery of certain Designs of the Court of France on the Maritime Coasts of those provinces. We are also assured, that a Resolution has been taken by her Imperial Majesty to recall, immediately, such of the Officers belonging to the French Gallies at Agra, as had Leave to return Home upon their parole; because her Majesty has certain Intelligence, that the French Court had a Design of ransoming their Prisoners, with no other View than to send them immediately to join the Emperor's Troops, and to concur in invading the Electorate of Bavaria. It is a Point settled, that our Quota towards forming the Army of Neutrality shall consist of 6000 Men; and the Generals, and other Officers, of that Body of Troops, will be speedily appointed.

General Post-Office, London, February 8, 1743.

WHEREAS the Post-Boy, going out with the West Mail from this Office, was this Morning, between Five and Six o'Clock, attacked on the Highway at the Stalling Place, on the other Side of Turnham-Green, by a single Highwayman, who took the said Post-Boy into a Field adjoining to the Road, and opened the Mail, and carried off the Exeter and Plymouth Bags: The Person, who committed this Robbery, is a middle-sized Man, and had on a Blue Great Coat, with his Hat tied over his Head, and he rode on a Sorrel Horse with a White Face, about Fourteen Hands high, and made off for Acton, the Oxford Road.
